

That's why there's life insurance

Life can take unexpected, unpredictable turns. Toward the amusing. The annoying. And, unfortunately, even the tragic. So every day, you take little steps to improve the odds that good things will happen and to guard against the bad. You wear seatbelts. You lock your doors when you leave home. You buy life insurance for the same kind of reason — to protect your family financially. It ensures that your loved ones will have the kind of lifestyle and opportunities you always hoped they'd have, even if you're not here. Will your family be OK when life happens?
